Dear Readers,

As we bring you another edition of WKND Magazine, I'm thrilled to share some truly remarkable features that our team has curated, reflecting the vibrancy of the world around us.

Firstly, I'd like to extend a heartfelt thank you to Rosemary Lourdes Fernandes for her insightful cover feature. Her dedication and expertise breathe life into the pages, and this issue is no exception. The fervor of the India vs. Pakistan World Cup 2023 is encapsulated brilliantly. While the cricketing world witnessed a riveting spectacle, our coverage dives deep into the nuances of the game, highlighting India's commanding victory over Pakistan by 7 wickets. Every boundary, every wicket, and every strategy - we've got it covered for our cricket aficionados.

Switching gears from the cricket pitch to the fashion runway, this edition also delves into the world of glamour with the ever-radiant Shanaya Kapoor. Her recent appearance in a Michael Kors outfit has turned heads and set trends. Our fashion segment breaks down this iconic look, guiding you on how to elevate your style statement.

Every edition of WKND Magazine is a labor of love, a testament to our commitment to bring you the best of what's happening around the globe. Whether you're a sports enthusiast, a fashionista, or simply looking for a good read, we hope this issue resonates with you.

Thank you for being a part of our journey. Here's to many more stories, insights, and weekends together!

Warm Regards,
Aamer Siddiqui

SHANAYA KAPOOR'S MICHAEL KORS ENSEMBLE DEMONSTRATES HOW TO ELEVATE YOUR FASHION GAME USING THE SIMPLE TANK TOPS IN YOUR COLLECTION.

Shanaya Kapoor showcases a masterclass on how to blend contemporary style with wardrobe staples. Who would've thought that a humble tank top, often reserved for casual outings or gym sessions, could be the center of a high-fashion ensemble? Fashion's cyclical nature never ceases to surprise, with even the most basic items getting a moment of glory. Remember 2022 when renowned fashion houses like Prada, Loewe, and Bottega Veneta gave the tank top a trendy twist?

Decked in a Michael Kors creation, Shanaya seemed to have walked straight off a fashion magazine cover, and we were all eyes. Under the deft hands of stylist Priyanka Kapadia Badani, she dazzled in a muted grey ribbed tank top, which was smartly juxtaposed with a hand-embroidered Pareo sequin maxi slit skirt from Michael Kors, boasting a chic gathered waistband. This ensemble cleverly balanced casual with glam. Not one to miss details, Shanaya accessorized thoughtfully. Her Bvlgari Serpenti Spiga watch was a luxurious addition, decked with glistening diamonds. This was further elevated with diamond Serpenti earrings having hints of emerald and matching ear cuffs. Her footwear choice? The elegant Montecarlo pointed-toe sandals by Gianvito Rossi adorned with crystal straps.

Shanaya's makeup glowed with a soft shimmer, highlighting her eyes in a dusky rose shade and her lips painted in a classic rosy mauve. Her hair, styled in a sleek, wet-look fashion, added to her modern, chic aura.

It's interesting to note the tank top's journey from its '90s heyday and its prominent presence in early 2000s hip-hop culture. As highlighted in Gucci's recent 'Ancora' show, tank tops, whether styled with glitzy skirts or baggy jeans, are undeniably back. With the Y2K fashion resurgence, the tank top's relevance is reaffirmed. Shanaya Kapoor's recent look is just a testament to that fact.

From the Court to the Stage: Rosemary Lourdes Fernandes Breaks Free

Beneath the bright lights of India's glittering entertainment world, Rosemary Lourdes Fernandes is not just a name but a heartfelt saga; a melody that tunes the rhythm of struggle, liberation, and unyielding spirit. Born and raised under Oman's embracing sky, today Rosemary is an undeniable presence in music, acting, influencing, and now, a trendsetting designer.

In the tranquility of Oman, a young girl basked in the sheer joy of basketball, hustling as a star player, yet also cradling a different kind of fire in her soul - music. Little did she know, her harmonious stints in a church choir at nine would eventually lead her to become a symphony, adored by many.

Moving to India in 2010 following her father's retirement, she commenced a career amidst the vibrant hues and cacophonous beats of a country that breathes diverse cultures. This career, which began at a remarkably young age, chiseled her into a resilient woman who knew how to sway to the beat of life's intricate tunes, while fashioning her own melody of independence and hustle.

Transitioning from the choir's soft and tender melodic expression to the powerfully articulated theatrical singing for plays in India was not without its challenges. Rosemary confesses, "It was intense...you have to sing from your diaphragm, throw your voice across the room using your strong voice." Yet, adversity was merely a chord in her life's song, not a conclusion.

From melodious narratives to articulate dialogues, Rosemary ventured into acting, all while bewilderment twinkled in her eyes when she bagged her first role. "Why?" she laughed, upon being cast, unaware that her journey from singing to screen would become a seamless transition, creating ripples in the industry with her memorable roles, including an impactful stint in Class of 2017 and a commercial with Raftaar. Wknd.in 15

“I do not know how I generated this audience but I am extremely grateful to be recognized even though the show aired 9 years ago.”

She admits that Splitsvilla Season 7 was a catalyst, propelling her into a realm where despite an early exit, her charm captivated a large audience. In a candid revelation, Rosemary shares, “I do not know how I generated this audience but I am extremely grateful to be recognized even though the show aired 9 years ago.”

Despite the charm of acting, Rosemary found her soul perpetually intertwined with music. Two pivotal moments drew her back, fully, into its embracing arms. The loss of her parents became a defining crescendo in her life, a box of treasure where her voice was the most precious gem, offering comfort and a reflective mirror to her passion and grief.

The formation of “Rosemary & The Herbs”, though born amidst the frantic preparations for a Halloween gig, forged not just a musical group but a family united by strings of passion. “I am grateful to have found a bunch of amazingly talented musicians who are now my family and are as or even more passionate about music than I am,” she reminisces.

Her bond with the esteemed Edward Maya further illuminated her path, becoming a mentor who shaped her not only artistically but spiritually as well. Gratitude drips from her words as she speaks of him, signaling the importance of mentorship and pure relationships in the industry.

Just released “Chhod do Aanchal”, a classic remake, marked a new chapter in her career. Released amidst a flurry of emotions, it became a bittersweet symphony, blending triumph and nostalgia.

As for her upcoming album, Rosemary teases, “It’s gonna get everyone grooving and loving it.” With themes and stories that are deeply relatable to her audience, she promises it will be a melody that resonates within the chambers of every heart.

But the crescendo of her journey doesn’t end here. With a clothing label launching in November, she traverses from auditory to visual artistry. From cocktail gowns to ready-to-wear sarees and hand-embroidered corsets, her collection promises a plethora of choices, reflecting her versatile, vibrant, and bold journey.

“Rosemary Lourdes Fernandes” - a woman who navigated through the different stanzas of life, from the basketball courts of Oman to the illuminating stages of India, crafting a melody that echoes struggle, triumph, loss, and an undying spirit of passion.

And so, her song plays on...

INDIA VS PAKISTAN HIGHLIGHTS, WORLD CUP 2023: IND THRASH PAK BY 7 WICKETS

India's dominating 192 for 3 (Rohit 86, Shreyas 53*) overcame Pakistan's 191 (Babar 50, Rizwan 49, Bumrah 2-19, Kuldeep 2-35, Jadeja 2-38) by a margin of seven wickets.

In a match that's always a spectacle but often underwhelms, the encounter lived up to its ebbs and flows, culminating in a resounding Indian victory. Pakistan's unexpected middle-over debacle, losing eight wickets for just 36 runs, turned a potentially riveting chase into a predictable ending. The Indian bowling lineup showcased collective brilliance, as ten Pakistani wickets were shared among five bowlers. Guided by skipper Rohit Sharma's stellar innings, India's chase seemed more like a show of prowess than a contest. With the early exit of Pakistan's spirit, India celebrated victory in front of an approximate audience of 100,000, solidifying their top spot in the World Cup race.

Defying their historical tactic of making Pakistan chase, India chose to bowl after winning the toss. Initial performances by Abdullah Shafique and Imam-ul-Haq showcased restraint against the likes of Jasprit Bumrah, while Mohammed Siraj faced a tougher challenge. The duo of Babar and Mohammad Rizwan stepped in to rebuild, displaying maturity and resilience.

Even though Pakistan maintained a steady approach, India's bowlers consistently kept them in check. After establishing a steady 50-run partnership, Pakistan looked confident at 155 for 2. However, Ahmedabad was about to witness a turn of events. Babar's attempt to slice the ball to the deep third encountered an unexpected bounce, resulting in a wicket. The subsequent ball saw a miscalculated run, hinting at Pakistan's looming distress.

Kuldeep Yadav exploited this unease perfectly. He accurately anticipated Saud Shakeel's sweeping tendencies, managing to trap him. In the same over, Iftikhar Ahmed's unfortunate shot led to another wicket. India's strategies induced an unmistakable panic in Pakistan's gameplay.

The previously wicketless Bumrah displayed his mastery by dismissing Rizwan, followed by a brilliant delivery to Shadab. Contributions from Hardik Pandya and Ravindra Jadeja concluded Pakistan's innings. As India prepared to bat, Ahmedabad transitioned from tense anticipation to celebratory fervor.
